

Born in Spokane, WA. In her early years there were very few national tournaments for women. Since she was in many local and state tournaments, she became the self proclaimed world champion. When the BCA staged the first national tournament for women in 1967, she immediately entered. For the next five years, she proved herself most worthy as she won five consecutive U.S. Open titles.